

The Office of Global Health
Presents

THE GLOBAL HEALTH LECTURE SERIES

Featuring: Disparities in Access to Treatment for Substance Use Disorders in Lubbock, TX with MD,
PhD Candidate Josh Willms

Josh is a TTUHSC Medical Student, he is developing novel drugs that modulate the neuroimmune system for the treatment of alcohol use disorder in the lab of Dr. Susan Bergeson. Josh will be discussing Substance use disorders and their treatments. Most local residents assume that if one of their fellow citizens needs help recovering from a substance use disorder, they would be able to get it. In Lubbock, TX, this is often not the case for certain groups of people.

When: 12pm to 1pm

April 28th 2021

Where: ZOOM (register below)
